

The Self-Disclosure of God: Introducing Exodus
Greg Stiekes, Pastor

The Lord God of heaven, who had made Himself known to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, also revealed Himself to Jacob's descendants when He brought them out of Egypt. The Exodus is the account of God's amazing self-disclosure to His people and to the world concerning His presence and His attributes.

1. Background to the Book of Exodus.

2. Unifying Theme of the Book of Exodus: God's Self-Disclosure to Israel and the Nations.

3. Initial Implications of God's Self-Disclosure:
  - A. Knowing God is a moral obligation (cf. Phil 3:10).

  - B. Knowing God begins with humility and faith.
    - (1) The hardened heart cannot know Him.
    - (2) The doubting heart cannot know Him.
    - (3) The Idolatrous heart cannot know Him.

  - C. Knowing God is ultimately possible through Christ alone.