

The God of Life – Exodus 16
Greg Stiekes, Pastor

By providing His people with their physical sustenance, God reveals that He is the source of life. Moreover, the manna in the wilderness prefigures the Bread of Life, the Lord Jesus Christ, who came to bring life to the world.

1. The wilderness manna possessed several remarkable qualities:
  - a. It was provided unmistakably by God.
  - b. It was a product of God's grace.
  - c. It met the need for sustaining life.
  - d. It was to be eaten in faith and obedience.

2. The qualities of the wilderness manna prefigures the Bread of Life:
  - a. Jesus' coming was unmistakably of God.
  - b. Jesus' coming was a product of God's grace.
  - c. Jesus' coming met the need for eternal life.
  - d. Jesus' coming must be accepted by faith.
