

Confessions of a Foreigner from Hebrews 11:13-16
Pastor Greg Stiekens

To confess, as the word is used in this text, means more than to admit to something. To confess is to profess one's deepest beliefs. Based on Gen 23:4, the author of Hebrews deduces several confessions which were made by those waiting for God to fulfill His promises. These ought to be our confessions also, as we journey through this world on the way to our ultimate destination.

1. "I am a stranger and a pilgrim." (v. 13)

2. "I seek a homeland." (v. 14)

3. "I desire a heavenly country." (vv. 15-16)
