

Final Admonitions—Hebrews 13:18–19, 23–25

Greg Stiekes

As the writer of Hebrews nears the end of his letter, his personal relationship with the believers who are reading it becomes evident as he begins to appeal to them about how to behave as they await his arrival. Though they may seem incidental, these final admonitions speak volumes to us about how we should behave as the church:

1. Pray for God's blessing (18–19).

2. Submit to exhortation (22).

3. Live in hope (23).

4. Be mindful of one another (24–25).