

WHO IS LIKE THE LORD?—PSALM 113
Greg Stiekes

This first of the “Egyptian Hallel” or Praise Psalms confronts us with a profound question: “Who is like the LORD our God?” (v. 5). In other words, this psalm calls us to praise the LORD because there is no answer for that question. Our God is incomparable. This psalm celebrates why God is incomparable, and instructs us how we should approach him:

1. The People of Praise: Servants of the LORD.

2. The Object of Praise: The name of the LORD.
The “name” of the LORD reveals his divine qualities:
 - a. He exists.
 - b. He is a Person.
 - c. He is self-existent.
 - d. He is self-sufficient.
 - e. He is a God of grace and mercy.
 - f. He is eternal.
 - g. He is immutable.

3. The Timing of Praise: Forevermore!
